

Jonathan Maxham - CLARK COUNTY DISTRICT G (R)

● VACCINE DENIER ● NEVER HELD OFFICE OR WORKED IN GOVERNMENT	● UNSERIOUS INFLUENCER COUPLE ● NOT FAR ENOUGH RIGHT - MOMS FOR LIBERTY ENDORSED ANOTHER CANDIDATE AGAINST HIM

Key Findings Include:

- Minimal Campaign Website. Maxham's campaign website does not have a policy issues page and touches lightly on support for medical freedom and veteran support.
- Anti Big Pharma and Vaccine Questioning Sentiments. Maxham has many Instagram posts and videos about questioning vaccines, disapproving of big pharma and does not believe the FDA protects people's health.
- Anti Trans and Affirmative Action Sentiments. During his run for the Board of Regents, Maxham said he opposed affirmative action and banning biological men from competing in women's sports.
- Traffic Violations: Multiple traffic incidents from speeding 25mph+ over the speed limit to operating under the influence, ranging from 1998-2015, in South Carolina and Ohio

Clark County is the largest county in Nevada and includes Las Vegas, Henderson, and surrounding suburbs, making it the political and economic center of the state. The county is governed by a seven-member Board of County Commissioners, elected from geographic districts for four-year terms on a partisan basis. County commissioners wield substantial authority over: land use and zoning, infrastructure and transportation planning, county services, regional agencies including water districts, redevelopment agencies, and University Medical Center [Clark County Economic Development].

Commission District G includes most of the city of Henderson, parts of Whitney and Green Valley, and Harry Reid International Airport. The district tends to include middle-class suburban voters and growing development corridors, with issues such as housing affordability, development pressures, and infrastructure often dominating local politics. Clark County overall leans Democratic but has competitive suburban pockets. Henderson and nearby areas historically have been more moderate or competitive, making them targets for Republican challengers.

Common contentious issues in Clark County and Henderson include:

- Rapid population growth and development
- Housing affordability
- Homelessness
- Public safety and crime
- Tourism and infrastructure funding
- Transportation and transit services

Politically, Clark is the statewide bellwether and Democratic base. In 2020, Joe Biden carried Clark County while winning Nevada statewide (official county page for the 2020 general). In 2024, even as Donald Trump flipped Nevada statewide, Clark still voted Democratic: Kamala Harris 50.44% (520,187) to Trump 47.81% (493,052), a D+2.6 pt margin in the county. INTEGRITY & ACCOUNTABILITY

Maxham has multiple traffic incidents ranging from public disorderly conduct to OVI and open container citations, in both South Carolina and Ohio.

Maxham's South Carolina incidents are from 1998 and 2015, and appear to have been settled with a fine and then dismissed. The 1998 incidents are speeding 25mph+ over the speed limit, and the 2015 incident is an open container violation. [Kershaw County Public Index, accessed 7/6/2026]

Maxham's Ohio incident is from 2010, and involved operating a vehicle under the influence. Two charges were dismissed, but the third one resulted in a suspended license and supervised follow up. [Fairborn Municipal Court Records, accessed 7/7/2026]

CAMPAIGN BACKGROUND

Maxham ran for the Nevada Board of Regents (District 12) in 2024 but lost in the general election to incumbent Amy Carvalho, a Moms For Liberty endorsed candidate (this was a nonpartisan race). [Ballotpedia][The Nevada Independent, 11/7/2024]

In his run for District G County Commissioner, he is running on a conservative platform and branding himself as a “conservative voice for common sense solutions.” [Jonathan Maxham, accessed 7/6/2026]

LACK OF CAMPAIGN POLICY DEPTH

Maxham's campaign website does not currently have a policies or positions page. The most notable campaign policies he is running on are "defending medical freedom", restoring transparency and accountability to local government, and supporting veterans. [Internet Archive Jonathan Maxham, accessed 7/6/2026]

Maxham updated his website to a different address (maxham4countycommission vs maxhamforcountycommission) and added an issues page with transparency & accountability, fiscal responsibility, economic growth & business, and public safety & community listed. The issues list basic bullet points for each area without elaborating on specific policies or positions. [Jonathan Maxham, accessed 7/6/2026]
